

CRIMINOLOGY

An Introductory Course

○ This fascinating course explores crime in modern society, from the causes of crime to the effectiveness of deterrents. It examines the relationship between crime and social factors, as well as the philosophy behind punishment. In the process, it provides invaluable insight into criminological theories. It will be particularly relevant to you if you plan to do probation work, join the police in a civilian capacity or wish to prepare for more advanced studies. The course is in two Modules. You can enrol for each Module separately if you wish.

Criminology

Clients say:

Clients who have recently completed the Criminology course made the following comments:

"I thoroughly enjoyed this gentle introduction to a fascinating subject. So much so in fact that I am doing an OU course in the New Year on a similar subject." DJL (Plymouth) G10055

"Just a short note to let you know what I have been doing since studying the course. I am currently studying for a diploma in Criminology and Social Policy and then I hope to go on to do a BA. The information you sent me has been very helpful in my current course, along with the useful tips you gave me regarding my presentation. I am also training to teach youths about drugs, sexual abuse, violence etc which I hope will eventually led to working with young offenders." AC (Stirling) H10075
